

The accompanying font files contain a small sample of the silhouette fonts. Even if you are interested in the lettering fonts, please use these files to make sure you can install the fonts and get them to work before you purchase any fonts (this will save both of us a lot of headaches).

If you are reading this, then you have Adobe Acrobat up and working. However, this does not mean you have the fonts installed. So, follow the installation instructions below, restart all programs and then try to create and print a new document using your favorite word processor, the TrainDemo font and the following legend information:

-To add track, use "(" and ")" on the following line at the same point size or "9" & "0" at 1/4 the point size.

Thanks for your interest and hopefully your patronage as well,

Benn Coifman

INSTALLING THE FONTS

The following explanation assumes you are installing Alphabet Train. Follow the same procedure for other fonts.

Mac:

On the Mac, the postscript version will require two files, one with the entire font name and the suffix, ".bmap" (the icon looks like a suitcase) and one with a truncated version of the font name (the icon looks like a laser printer). The True Type version requires just one file with the suffix, ".suit" (the icon looks like a suitcase). Consider the following example which assumes you are installing the "Railroad Roman" font:

Post Script:

Just drag the files: "RailroadRoman.bmap", and "RailrRom", onto your system folder and restart any applications that are currently running.

True Type:

Drag the SINGLE file: "RailroadRoman.suit", onto your system folder

WARNING!!!

DO NOT INSTALL THE TRUE TYPE AND POST SCRIPT VERSION OF THE SAME FONT AT THE SAME TIME.

Windows:

Windows 3.x:

Locate the FONT control panel and open it. Select the "Add Font" button. Locate the True Type version of Alphabet Train on your disk drives (it has the .TTF suffix)

If a complex True Type font fails to print, you may be able to solve the problem by changing the OutlineThreshold setting in the [True Type] section of your Windows WIN.INI file. The default setting is 256 (pixels per em (if you don't know, don't worry)) and has a range of 0-300. If you change it to 70 (i.e., OutlineThreshold=70), the True Type font might print. The price of this improvement may be a slower print speed. As I understand it, by lowering the OutlineThreshold, you are decreasing the amount of memory needed to print the fonts.

Windows95,97,etc.:

Go to Start, then Help, then index, then "adding new fonts" and follow the directions.

Other IBM/PC operating systems or applications:

Follow the application specific instructions for installing a Post Script or True Type Font

The informal gist of the license agreement

Please do not make illegal copies of the fonts and artwork. I have put thousands of hours in to these files and I am providing them as a service to you. If they are good enough to use, then my work should be good enough to pay for. Likewise, please purchase a license for each computer you will use the font(s) on. When you do use my work, please give credit where credit is due.

LICENSE AGREEMENT

By using the software you are agreeing to be bound by the terms of this agreement. If you do not agree to the terms of this agreement, do not use the software and destroy all copies in your possession.

The artwork, fonts and software are owned by Benjamin Coifman and are protected by United States copyright laws and international treaty provisions. The fonts and artwork are provided "as is". Under no circumstances shall Benjamin Coifman or any of his business associates be liable for any incidental, special, or consequential damages that result from the use or inability to use the fonts, even if Benjamin Coifman has been advised of the possibility of such damages. In no event shall Benjamin Coifman and his associates' liability exceed the license fee paid.

Except when a special licensing agreement has been arranged, this agreement applies to all font and software packages downloaded from www.RailFonts.com. Where a font package includes all of the fonts and documentation originally bundled by Benjamin Coifman into one compressed archive and hereafter referred to as a "font". Upon downloading of a font, this license agreement supersedes any previous agreements except as noted at the beginning of this paragraph.

For each font license purchased, you are entitled to ONE copy installed on ONE computer at any given time. True Type and Postscript versions; normal and simplified versions; or any other variations contained within a given package are considered one font as a collective whole. Such variations may be installed on ONE computer simultaneously, but may not be installed on multiple computers simultaneously unless licenses have been purchased for ALL of the computers. For example, you may have RRRoman and RailroadRoman installed on one computer because they come as one font package, but you may NOT have RRRoman installed on one computer and RailroadRoman installed on a separate computer unless you have two licenses.

You may NOT distribute copies of the font (software) or resell the artwork in any form (including, but not limited to: CDROM's, badges, rubber stamps, stickers and decals) without the express written permission of Benjamin Coifman. You may, however, sell your license for a price not to exceed the original purchase price provided you include all of the original files, documentation and license agreement AND you delete all copies you have made. You may NOT make derivative works of any kind from the fonts, except as detailed in this agreement.

By distributing a font package, or portion thereof, without Benjamin Coifman's written permission, you agree to pay Benjamin Coifman $10 or the current catalog price listed on www.RailFonts.com, whichever is greater, per copy produced, per font package used.

You may not distribute the fonts/artwork in machine readable (software) form except GIF format or JPEG format. If you do distribute the fonts in the allowed manner, you must give credit to Benn Coifman for the creation and cite "www.RailFonts.com" and if used on the world wide web, provide a link to this site.

Without additional licensing agreements, you may not sell products (including, but not limited to: stickers, decals, T-shirts, and models) containing the fonts or artwork in printed or hardcopy format.

Without additional licensing agreements, you may use the fonts and artwork in printed form in publications (including, but not limited to: magazines, books, and newsletters) if and only if: (1) you give credit to Benn Coifman for the font/artwork and cite "www.RailFonts.com" in every issue or document that the fonts are used. (2) for periodicals, you provide a sample issue containing the fonts to Benjamin Coifman (see current mailing address at www.RailFonts.com). (3) for books, you provide a sample copy to Benjamin Coifman (see current mailing address at www.RailFonts.com).

Limit of liability: downloading, installing or otherwise using the fonts and other software files constitutes an agreement by you that you accept the software as is and that our liability (Benjamin Coifman and associates) is limited to replacement, exchange or a refund of the original purchase price (our discretion). In addition Benjamin Coifman and associates shall not be held liable for third party claims or for indemnification resulting from use of these fonts. All warranties express and implied are disclaimed, including warranties of merchantability and claims of fitness for a specific purpose.

If you violate any part of this agreement, your right to use the fonts and artwork terminates automatically and you must then destroy all copies of the fonts and artwork in your possession.
